

Jayne Miller Bio

Jayne Miller is the former Chief Investigative Reporter for WBAL-TV in Baltimore. She was a broadcast journalist for more than 45 years before her retirement from the station in 2022. She then hosted a weekly news and talk radio show on WBAL Radio.

Jayne now hosts a podcast, Maryland Capital, which focuses on policy and legislation, addressing issues of the day. Her reporting throughout her career led to changes in legislation, public policy and private industry practices and standards.

Jayne is a Penn State Alumni Fellow. Her journalism work has earned her a duPont-Columbia award, an Edward R. Murrow award, and a National Headliner award. She was recognized with a Lifetime Achievement award by the Radio Television Digital News Foundation (RTDNF) in 2022.

Jayne lives in Baltimore. She serves on the boards of several non-profits and organizations including Goodwill Industries of the Chesapeake, Leadership Baltimore County, the Canton Community Association, the Community Violence Intervention Advisory Board and the LGBTQ Commission in Baltimore City. She works independently on documentary projects and civic affairs.
